Eight things you should know about the NCTech4Good Conference

1. Be sure you park in the right parking lot. The first parking lot (on the right as you come in Friday Center Drive) is reserved staff/student parking -- don't park there. Go a little further, you'll see the Friday Center Center. Take the first right after you pass the building. Parking is on the left. Parking map (http://www.fridaycenter.unc.edu/images/fc_parkingmap.jpg)
2. Be sure to visit the exhibits. The sponsors have been very generous, and they want to show you the services they offer for nonprofits.
3. If you post about the conference in your blog, send tweets, post photos or video, please use the tag "nct4g2010" and let Judy Hallman (<mailto:hallman@email.unc.edu>) know about your online posts if you would like so we can link to them from the conference website.
4. For the reception, we'll have beer, wine, punch, some cheeses, and fruit with dip. Let's not have any cheese/fruit leftovers. The Friday Center closes at 7pm.
5. You can continue conversations at a local restaurant. There a list at <http://www.visitchapelhill.org/dining/list/c/restaurants/> (<http://www.visitchapelhill.org/dining/list/c/restaurants/>). Judy's recommendation: Jujube (<http://jujuberestaurant.com/>), in the Glen Lennox shopping center, near the Friday Center, on Highway 54.
6. Bring business cards. You're going to meet a lot of interesting people.
7. There are directions to the Friday Center, information about hotels, and other information for travelers on the conference travel page. (<http://nctech4good.org/travel>)
8. We will have a few books on display in the exhibit area, and we will have a drawing to give them away, along with a few other items, like t-shirts. Current books we expect to have include:
